A Song To Barringer

Atop the hill thy old walls stand
And, steadfast, watch the years march by;
The great third in a mighty band,
Proud of thy name and honor high.

Strong old walls, this be my plea—
Let your firmness live in me.

Beside thee, spires point on high,
Now cloaked in mist, now etched in sun.
A bright lake—fragment of the sky,
Fields of light and shadow spun.

Lake and spires, this be my plea—
Let your beauty live in me.

Youth and hope march in thy halls,
Glad-given friendship lights the way.
The world is brought within thy walls;
We are the sculptors; life, our clay.

High school days, this be my plea—
Forever leave your joy in me.

—KATHRYN MEYERSON.

whose philosophy and inspiration have smoothed the path of duty and have prepared us to meet all obstacles with undaunted cheerfulness.

This book has already been formally dedicated to the High Schools of America and to Barringer, but actually, in our hearts, it is fondly dedicated to

LURA M. BRIGGS

who has given to us more than was hers to give whose guiding spirit has turned discouragement into inspiration, and who has taught us to make every obstacle another step toward the top.

Barringer, Old and New

EVERY year our parade-loving country searches high and low for a good reason to celebrate, and this year, 1935, the whole country is celebrating the founding of the first high school. We, of this younger generation, who are always anxious and willing to help, are eager to join in the fun and celebrate too, because our Alma Mater was the third high school established in the United States.

It could hardly be called an establishment in those days—just a gathering of boys, a book or two and old "Pop Hedges," that skilled master of the rod. Tradition says that he spared neither rod nor child, but just between you and me, I think he favored the rod. At any rate, the robust lads of the '50's took such abuse with a smile and lived to laugh about it later. And so the old school seemed to thrive because these ninety-one boys were eager to learn all that "Pop Hedges" knew. In this respect they surpassed both our capacity and our intentions.

But alas! They liked it so much that the little second-story schoolhouse became overcrowded, and after many heated discussions the "Common Council" (the Board of Education of the 1850's) allotted just $20,000 for a new high school building. The little two-by-four building was built on the corner of Washington and Linden Streets, and no sooner were the four walls up than three hundred and eighty-two pupils were waiting on the doorstep. That notable occurrence was on a Monday morning in January too. I guess we just can't take

They had the enormous number of five faculty members, but the students were thankful that there were no more, because those five did quite well when it came to work and discipline. Who of the old school could forget "Skinny Johnson," that severe math teacher who had all the propositions and theorems sung in class; and Old Man Merwin, who got his family affairs mixed up with Caesar, and amused the students with all his troubles and arguments with his wife?

But the school itself was as funny as the faculty. I don't know where the idea came from, but the boys were jammed up on the third floor, while the girls were given free access to the first two. A good idea at that; eh, girls? And what's-more, each sex had its own street to walk on and its own door to enter. If any of these rules were broken, the offenders were flogged and beaten and shaken until their heads wobbled as if affixed to their bodies on pivots. It's interesting to know that playing hookey was a favorite pastime in those days. And we thought it was a modern idea!

They were given forty-five minutes for lunch. The boys and girls gleefully dashed to the bakery, grabbed a bun on the run, and rowed for all they were worth down the Passaic River until it was time to go back. Needless to say, it was healthier than a lot of rich food, a seat in John's and a cigarette, but we stick with our generation in that it seems like wasted energy to spend a long-anticipated lunch period rowing a clumsy boat.

As for their activities: they spent most of their energy on lessons, on baiting the teachers, and on a literary society. But if we had a course consisting of four years of Latin, three of Greek, and four of math, perhaps we should have no time for fooling. One can never tell. Perhaps that is the answer to the teacher's dream. They had daily spelling bees and a monthly composition. They had no sciences nor modern languages at all, and in mechanical drawing the boys made designs for wall paper. For the benefit of those who couldn't stand the course, the first high school had no formal graduation. They came and went as they pleased.

About this time, they again needed a new building to house the crowds, so the "Common Council" once more put on their thinking caps and scanned the countryside (for it was still country) for a suitable spot on which to build a bigger and better school. With visions of the Cathedral as a background and the park as the foreground, they selected the present site of Barringer. In 1899, after years of work, the building stood waiting with open doors. It looked huge to the students and they bubbled over with excitement when they discovered a "real b'g" auditorium in the building. They nowhere nearly fixed it. In fact, a paper at the thought of abiding five days a week in a building so small and with plenty of room. It also said, "The new building will be so small that it will be unwise to put more than 1,500 people in it."

Mr. Sonn's cigar, and all the rest with their idiosyncrasies? We wonder whose smile about in years.

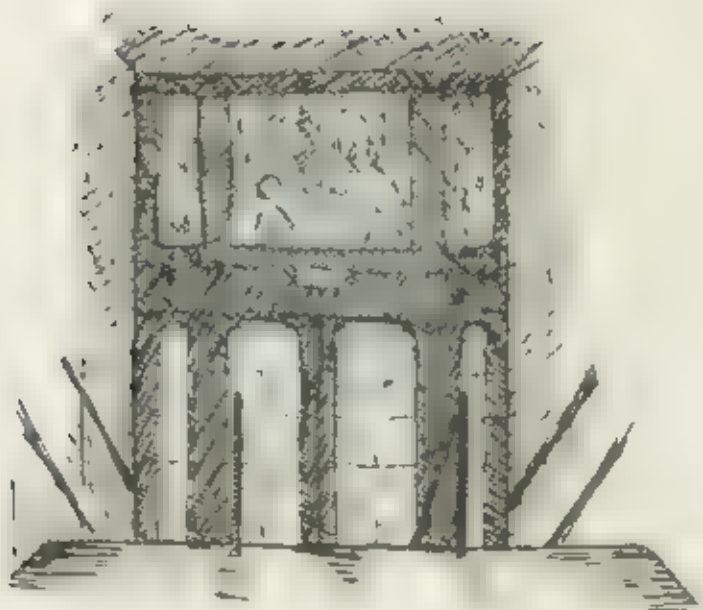

the question is whether the new building is for worse. A building that is so small that it will be unwise to put more than 1,500 people in it.

the question is whether the new building is for worse. A building that is so small that it will be unwise to put more than 1,500 people in it. The building is so small that it will be unwise to put more than 1,500 people in it. The building is so small that it will be unwise to put more than 1,500 people in it.

Jan. 31—An-h-h. (A big sigh of relief.)

Feb. 27—The class joined the ranks of the organized today, with Toby D'Andrea president; Gloria Chen, vice-president; Violet Casale, secretary; Harold Boden, treasurer. Because of the enormity of the class (it is the largest in the history of Barringer), it was necessary to appoint an Executive Committee to assist the officers. This committee consists of the officers of each home room.

Mar. 21—Spring but no fiddle.

Mar. 23—Had a social today. Only class members were to be admitted as the purpose was to get acquainted, but a certain 4A English class crashed almost in toto (S-s-s-s). They had seen the lemon juice collect on Miss Briggs' desk.

Oct. 8—4B elections—"Archie" Boden, president; Betty Hart, vice-president; Hortense Raffaello, secretary; and Michael Siciliano, treasurer.

Oct. 31—A female member of Room 32 won a live pig at a dance.

Nov. 4—She is once more allowed to associate with the rest of us.

Nov. 15—Our first evening dance was a complete success, at least socially. What's more, we probably hold an all time record in that there was no crashing. What a system!

Dec. 7-8—The outstanding achievement of us 4B's to date is the ambitious theatrical endeavour, "An Evening of Plays." Three plays were presented each night, "Spreading the News," "The Copper Pot," and "The Man Who

Brain Gang Case

"I am a fugitive from a brain gang!" is the cry of Louis Di Martino. We are emphatically in favor of the stand taken by Martino and his counsels. Hilman and Pope. Robert Konove and Edwin Einbender, prosecuting attorneys fred words through loopholes in a wall of encyclopedias at the defendant who retaliated by thrusting digs. Justices Heidinger and Evin presided. The verdict was GUILTY.

Not only do we oppose this verdict but also do most of our readers.

"—dis verdict ain't s'hot."

—John Russon'elio.

"yeah, me too."

—Evelyn (niftypuss) Arcuarius.

"Really, I think this person ought to be incarcerated in a brain cell."

—Ernestine Gennell.

SMASH - UP

A milk truck driven by Irwin Jacobus of Heifer Heights, N. J., colided early this morning with a Hershy truck driven by Henry Wokin, of 2 Sweet Street. The drivers escaped injury but the trucks were overturned.

OPEN - UP

This evening Anthony Del Presto opened a chain of chocolate syrup stores.

With Thomas Mastrian, world-famed equestrian.
Genevieve now has a steady.
And it won't be long now, for they're both about READY.
And what's more
Patsy Restaino's not the least bit
insano
For he's the engineer of a very fast traino.
And
Einor Rapelye is sure.y no sape.ye
For she married a rich man,
And now they live happelye
And
Mary Liguori, bonnie as Annie
Laurie
Is the last of th's—
A short but sweet story.

POETRY CORNER

The hostess was Sarno.
Present were Sparno.
And Michael La Rossa
The fighter and tossa-
John Ciasul'.
Who likes to teach a schooli,
Frank Aur'emma
Who's in a diemma
Because he's so short—
But he's a good sport.
Mike Cocchiola, ditto l'kew.se
Who also comes in a small size.
There too were Joe D'El'a
Who fences per-meila,
Tony D'Alessio
Very well dressio,
Loretta Viscito
Quiet and sweeto.
Geraldine Malanga
Sanga.
Jerry Farina was in the arena
Playing rou etta
With Catherine Maietta,
That charming brunetta.
Also there were those two friendzo,
P. De Lorenzo and J. De Renzo.
Tony Martino was there to be seeno.
To the Charivaria Etta Ilaria
Danced the gavottico
With cartoonist Vernotico.
There were John Del Mauro,
Violinist O'Soro.
There was Chris Eia
Looking quite welia.
Near the refreshments did prowlo
Dominick Di Paolo,
There, too, was L. Pica
The great knowledge seeka
Hortense Raffaello
And Gerard Vitie lo,
Anthony Santuoso
The art'st verboso.
Angelo Vucolo
Gave cake, cookie and rolo.
Stembal and Conway were on the job
As traffic cops to watch the mob.
Poems are made by fools like meo
But only God can make D'Atrio.
With one last verse I'll call a trucy—
I simply must say, Lucy Bucci.

It just Scioscia.

What if William were Nertz instead of Wertz?

THE SNUCK-UPS

Conducted by

MISS RUTH MOEHLER

Mrs. Ponf de Poof, the former Margaret Campbell, has just given a bit of a shind'g, at which were present Mrs. Van Slink, Frances Jameson, to her readers; Mrs. de Goo, the former Marge McPartland, and the guest of honor, Miss Muriel Aibers, just returned from an extensive tour, during which time she completely smote the Emperor of Sowhat with her charms, by reciting sweet poetry in his she-pink ears.

The affair was held at the Florence Lodge, which has been newly redecorated by Helen Littel. The ladies parked their children at the Schenck Day Nursery.

Engrole mates at this snippiest of snippy affairs were: Lynn Barabin, the well known young author of "I'm Tired of Thinking," and Henry Solomon, the acme of the well dressed man about town. Mr. William Toand and Miss Audrey Dimm arrived on a bicycle built for two. Elizabeth Teifer and George Thomas charged in on a Klocycle.

The company was kept in gales of laughter by the two famous comedians, Harold Widman and George Janick.

Dinner was prepared by Gus Heidekat, the renowned chef famed for his aptitude for wresting together luscious foods.

The valuables were guarded by James Burnes, noted member of the Keyhole Detective Agency.

Irony

Plant your foot upon
The earth
Vainly brought upon a soul
Everlasting peace

I love to whistle in
This kingdom of the dead
For I hear an echo
On a distant hill

Lost

I lost a coin
While on my way to work.
I never found it

And I never found it
And I never found it
And I never found it
And I never found it

Giddap

Through the green fields
Across the open plain
Through the green fields
Across the open plain
Through the green fields
Across the open plain

Across bare moors of Hades
Across with devils chasing Across on
Around a bend, through roads
As sunlight from horizon's gear
We fly right on

Till suddenly I spy a form
The nation near at hand
We fly right on.

And now we find our rest
And I thank God with all my heart
My riding lesson's done

To, L. M. B.

When your head felt a heavy load
And from your heart a great sorrow
For you never really had a friend
And Ryan and Barrett and Einbender, too
Would be always telling you what to do
They would tell you what to do
What do you mean?
And they would explain so it could be seen:
That you would be a success, and Vetter and
The other boys would be making
And they would cry
You're not working, I wish you'd get
It right now, so I won't have to
All would be quiet but just for awhile
Cause ten minutes later you'd look up and smile.
They would be cheering
And as they could.
Then you'd sit down mumm'ring
"What are the gods?"

When you hurried and bustled for days and nights
And the voice of an actress was too high or too low
And you never had a chance to get it just so.
And they would be cheering
And they would be cheering
And they would be cheering they were a success.
And do you remember when we all were
And the war was over, and we knew we were
And they were cheering when with tears in your eyes
You heard all those vibrant and
And they would never miss all of your charm
And they would be free from all harm
And they would be free from this day hence
And they would be free from this day hence
And they would be free from this day hence

—GEORGE H. BENNETT.

Alma Mater

Over many a city old
Famed in song and story,
Thy name is dear and loved
Catholics and Protestants
Singing Alma Mater songs
Underneath the flag
High above the clouds
And in the hearts of men

Higher than the sky
O'er the Adriatic sea
The Dominican winds
When the storm winds rally
Newark High, thy fame we raise
May we never part
Through the year with us
Loyal to the end

SCHOOL AND COLLEGE PRINTERS

THE ART OF PRINTING

The invention of printing from movable types, made in Holland near the middle of the fifteenth century, was the most significant invention of civilized man. The priceless jewel of knowledge, which for centuries could be the possession of only a privileged few, was made available to all by the development of printing. During the last five centuries printing has progressed not only as the spreader and preserver of knowledge and culture, but also as the finest of the graphic arts.

We take pride in turning out artistic printing. Our plant represents the last word in modern equipment, skillful craftsmanship, and dependable service.

You regard your yearbook as the reflection of your school; we regard it as a sample of the art of printing.

Our specialty is attractive printing that both you and we can be proud of.
